Yanks Still Champs, Win 4-2

Take Fourth Straight Series Title

Mantle's Homer,
Three Relief
Hurlers Star

BROOKLYN, N.Y.—The New York Yankees won their fourth straight World Series today by defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4 to 2 in a thrilling seventh game. A mighty home run by Mickey Mantle and the combined efforts of three relief pitchers enabled the Yankees to take the series finale.

FIRST YANKEES
McDougald slapped Black's first pitch on the ground to Reese who threw him out.

Rizzuto took a called strike, then bunted sharply inside the first baseline and was tagged out by Hodges.

Mantle fouled off two pitches, took a ball, and then went down swinging at a fast ball.

Allie Reynolds, Yankee ace right-hander, walked out to the bullpen to be ready in case of emergency.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIRST DODGERS
Cox struck out.

Reese bounced to McDougald who threw over Mize's head, Reese reaching first safely on the error.

Snider struck out.

Woodling made a fine running catch of Robinson's liner in deep left-center.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND YANKEES
Mize walked.

Snider took Berra's high pop fly.

Woodling skied to Shuba.

Noren raised a high fly to Furillo.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND DODGERS
Campanella sent a dribbler back to the mound and was an easy out.

Hodges chased Mantle back to the center field wall for his long smash.

Shuba rapped a single through Lopat's legs into center field for the first hit of the game.

McDougald gloved Furillo's bouncer and threw to Mize for the out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

THIRD YANKEES
Martin flied to Snider.

Lopat bounced out to Hodges who made the putout unassisted.

McDougald sent a one-bouncer to Cox who threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD DODGERS
Black went down swinging.

Cox bounced out, McDougald to Mize.

Noren went back in front of the scoreboard to haul in Reese's drive to right.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH YANKEES
Rizzuto rapped a double inside the third baseline, the ball rolling out into the left field corner for the first Yankee hit.

Mantle went out on a one-bouncer to Hodges who made the unassisted putout. Rizzuto advanced to third.

Mize lined a single over Cox's outstretched glove into left field scoring Rizzuto with the first run of the game.

Robinson made a fine stop to his left of Berra's smash and started a double play, the second baseman to Reese to Hodges.

One run, two hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH DODGERS
Snider smashed a ground single past Mize.

Robinson laid down a beautiful bunt between the mound and third base, reaching first safely without even drawing a throw as Lopat was late fielding the ball. Snider reached second on the infield single. Manager Stengel came out to confer with Lopat, and Reynolds started to warm up in the Yankee bullpen.

Campanella executed another surprise bunt, beating out a little roller to Lopat inside the third baseline, to fill the bases.

Stengel again came out, and signaled the end of Lopat calling in Reynolds to pitch.

The first batter to face Reynolds was Gil Hodges, who has failed to make a single hit in 18 official times at bat in this seven game series. It was Reynolds' fourth appearance of the series.

Wilbur Takes Trellis Mae to The Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilbur Peeble, America's average citizen, thought it was the break of a lifetime when an old friend gave him two tickets to the World Series.

He wasn't so sure, however, when his wife said she wouldn't let him go to the big city without her. Wilbur knew that Trellis Mae's knowledge of baseball consisted of a dim conviction that a batter was something you stirred up in a kitchen.

"I'll take you on one condition—that you don't bother me with a single question during the entire game," he said.

She agreed. But the day of the game Trellis Mae insisted he leave the hotel and accompany her on a shopping tour. They missed lunch and got to the ball park in the third inning.

"They oughtn't to allow women—" fumed Wilbur, as they sat down in their seats in the upper stand near the right field foul pole.

Trellis Mae turned her back on him and confided to a beefy, red-nosed Dodger fan next to her: "My husband won't let me talk to him. Will you tell me what is the real object of this game?"

"Well, it's—it's to get the most runs," said the fan.

"What are they standing there for then? Why don't they all start running?"

As the fan's jaw dropped, Trellis Mae said, "When do they take their naps?"

"Isn't that what those cute little white pillows are for?" she asked, pointing at the base bags. Next she wanted to know if it wouldn't dress up the game if they used lady umpires, then she scribbled a postcard saying, "Scenery wonderful— Wish you were here," and demanded, "Where's the mailbox?"

The red nose of her neighbor turned a mottled blue.

Bored, Trellis Mae started watching the metal foul pole as it swayed back and forth in the wind. Soon she felt nauseated.

"Wilbur, I'm seasick," she said.

"But nobody ever got seasick at a baseball game—it's impossible."

"Well, I am. It must be because I didn't eat. You'd better go get me a hot dog or you'll be awfully sorry."

Wilbur went. A great roar rose from the crowd a moment later when Wilbur scrambled back, the red-nosed man said: "Johnny Mize (Please turn to Page 4, Column 1)

Biggest Attack By Reds

At First 15,000
Are Driven Back;
More Charge Thru
Stacks of Own Dead

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Fanatical Chinese Reds tonight charged across a battlefield littered with their own dead in a renewed assault against two vital heights on Korea's western front.

The peaks—White Horse Mountain and Arrowhead Ridge—were the main targets of the biggest Red attack in a year. Valiant Allied infantrymen stood their ground against 15,000 screaming Chinese yesterday.

AP Correspondent Milo Farneti reported from the front that a roaring artillery barrage powered today's assault. The Reds pumped 1200 rounds an hour at each of the heights before the infantry charge.

The first Red onslaught last night gained the Reds some ground at isolated points.

Fighting was brutal. The Reds threw men, tanks and artillery into the battle, spread over two-thirds of the 155-mile battlefield.

But the Allies had known for three days of the attack and were ready for it.

The U. S. Eighth Army said the massive Red assault captured seven hill positions. But the Allied defenders stood their ground at most places. The Army added that many hundreds of Reds were killed.

Allied warplanes roared over the front today, hitting the Red lines.

Reds said they destroyed two Red tanks and about 80 bunkers.

One Allied outfit fought and died to the last man in defending a vital hill. The number of men, presumably not large, was withheld.

A front-line Allied officer indicated the Reds may have been seeking a weak point where their troops and tanks could pour through to the south. Had they cut off the entire Seoul area.

Wave after wave of fanatical Chinese began hitting the Western and Central Fronts last night. The biggest force, nearly 6,000 men, ran straight into an Allied trap and was badly mauled.

The main Red blow hit White Horse Mountain and Arrowhead Ridge. Two Allied-held hills near Chorwon.

The Reds opened the floodgates of a reservoir in an unsuccessful effort to cut off Allied reinforcements.

Lt. William D. Lansford of Los Angeles said the Allies knew the attack was imminent when the Yokkoo river, which circles both hills, began to rise.

That meant the Reds had opened the floodgates of Pongnae Reservoir. But the Allies had prepared for that by fixing rock fords, cable crossings and a helicopter landing strip.

Knowing the attack was coming, the Allies brought up fresh troops, tanks and big guns.

When the Chinese attacked they were met with a blistering barrage of fire.

Between 900 and 900 Reds were killed at White Horse alone. Another 230 died at Arrowhead Ridge.

Associated Press correspondent Milo Farneti at the front said the fighting produced the first tank battle since the early days of the war. One Russian-built T34 tank was knocked out.

White Horse Mountain and Arrowhead Ridge dominate the flat Chorwon Valley, at the Western end of the Iron Triangle.

Delmar Brown City Council Votes To Repeal Bus Franchise As Of Nov. 2

Killed In Action
There In July;
Funeral Is Friday

The body of Delmar Brown, Brown, 23, who was killed in action in Korea July 13, 1952, will arrive in Warrensburg Thursday at 8 a. m. and will be taken to the Saults-Baker Funeral Home in Knob Noster.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Methodist Church in Knob Noster, conducted by the Rev. Lloyd D. Wasson, pastor of the church.

Pallbearers will be from the Gregory-Zink American Legion Post, No. 253, in Knob Noster.

The body will remain at the funeral home until the hour of the funeral.

Mr. Brown was born March 12, 1929, in Knob Noster, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Brown of Hughesville. He attended Knob Noster school and spent his boyhood in Knob Noster. The family moved from Knob Noster to Hughesville in February, 1948. He entered service in the Army on April 10, 1951, taking training at Camp Breckenridge, Ky., until Oct. 16th of that year. He spent a ten-day furlough at home and was then sent to Okinawa and from there to Korea in the middle of March, with the 73rd Tank Division. He was shot while on bivouac July 13, 1952. The body arrived in San Francisco, Calif., on Sept. 25.

Surviving are: his parents of the home in Hughesville; three sisters, Mrs. J. T. (Margaret) Abney of Sedalia, Mrs. E. J. (Thelma) Bailey of Astoria, Ill.; Mrs. Mary Marie Bronell of New Orleans, La.; and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Martha McIntire of Knob Noster; one nephew, five nieces and several uncles and aunts.

Wife Charged With Murdering Colonel Smith

TOKYO (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Smith, daughter of Gen. Walter Krueger, has been charged with murder in the fatal stabbing Saturday of her husband, Col. Aubrey D. Smith, Gen. Mark Clark's headquarters announced tonight.

The attractive woman, mother of two children, is held under observation in a Tokyo Army hospital.

A spokesman in Clark's headquarters said, "This case will be handled in accordance with normal procedure. The charge is now being investigated as required by statute—namely Article 32 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. Should the investigation establish that trial is warranted, the charge would be referred to an appropriate military court for trial."

The spokesman said, "A charge of murder has been preferred."

It was reported unofficially that under Army regulations, should Mrs. Smith be brought to trial it would be held in Tokyo.

Man Shoots at Dog, Saves Animal's Life

ROSSVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Butch, a 5-year-old hound chained under a burning house yesterday, howled helplessly as rescue efforts were blocked by flames.

A passerby, J. B. Durham of Chickamauga, Ga., seized a shotgun and fired at the dog's head, hoping to halt the hound's suffering.

The pellets only clipped the dog's collar, however, and Butch dashed off to a cooling brook.

To Call 460 Doctors, 204 Dentists Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department announces Tuesday it will draft 460 physicians and 204 dentists in December.

The army will get 285 physicians and 159 dentists in the December quota. The others were assigned to the air force.

The new call will bring the number of physicians drafted since July, 1951, to 2,694 and the dentists to 1,254.

Resolutions on Hospital No. 2, Use Of Missouri Ave., as Highway Both Presented, Filed With City Clerk

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

The Sedalia City Council Monday night, voted to repeal the franchise of the Sedalia Bus Co., effective Nov. 2. The Council also heard a petition presented by the Pettis County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People which requested the facilities of the Bothwell Hospital be opened to the Negro citizens of Sedalia.

Also read was a petition by residents along Broadway and Missouri and property owners adjoining those streets proposing the removal of highways 65 and 50 from those streets.

After discussions on the two petitions, they were placed on file with the City Clerk.

A resolution ordering the placing of 29 street lights and giving the Mayor and City Council the authority to order the lights to be installed was passed.

Routine Council business was transacted after which Mayor Studer brought up the bus situation. He explained the activities of the Citizens Committee and its recommendations made to the Council, which were forwarded to Marvin and Olen Howard, owners of the Sedalia Bus Co. He also read a letter received from the Howards, in which they stated in part, "We are compelled by force of circumstances at this time to inform that it is impossible for us to meet the requirements and recommendations as therein set forth by reason of two major propositions; first, the loss of money operating expenses involved, and secondly the inability to obtain necessary personnel to successfully operate on the time and hourly basis as suggested."

The committee had four recommendations governing the bus problem: (1) That bus service be restored on Sunday from 8 a. m. until 1 p. m.; (2) That bus service be restored to 11 p. m. on week nights to be on hourly schedule after 7 p. m.; (3) That there be no bus service on holidays, to conform with the closing of business houses and factories of Sedalia; (4) That the 24th and North Osage bus service be restored.

This letter to the Howards was signed by Rev. D. Warren Neal, chairman of the Citizens Committee.

Citizen Group Disbands

The Mayor then stated the Citizens Committee was discharged and thanked it for a "job well done."

Mayor Studer stated Glenn Watson, operator of the bus companies at Columbia and Jefferson City, would come to Sedalia and operate the buses if the city so desired. Watson said, according to Mayor Studer, he could start operations within 24 hours.

The Council then heard a motion by Councilmen Elmer Sumners that the Council repeal the franchise with Marvin and Olen Howard, to be voided effective Nov. 2. It carried unanimously.

The petition of the NAACP, mailed to Mayor Studer the first of last week, was then read. It was signed by the Rev. B. C. Brock, president; Mrs. D. F. Richards, secretary; and Fred D. Ferguson, chairman.

At this point other Council business was transacted, after (Please turn to page 4, column 4)

Rose Show Tonite Will Have Roses Despite Mr. Frost

Old Jack Frost might have thought he was going to spoil the rose exhibition scheduled for tonite at the Little Theatre, but, according to Victor Gill, president of the Sedalia Rose Society, he just doesn't know rose growers.

The rose growers heard that the fellow, who puts a nip in the air and a shabby brown dress on the last rose of summer, was on his way and so most of them went out and clipped the rosebuds ahead of time and there will be roses on display tonite.

The display will begin at 7:30 and the speaker of the evening will be Lester E. Satterwhite of Kansas City, north central regional director of the American Rose Society. He will talk on "What Makes a Good Rose."

A question box on growing roses will serve as the basis of a discussion by Martin Pashea, manager of the Glendale Gardens at Independence.

President Truman Here Wednesday Night at 8:30 o'Clock— Four Other Presidents Have Visited Sedalia

By W. D. Agee

George Washington never slept here and neither did any of the later presidents when serving their terms. But a few of the chief executives have visited Sedalia, made speeches, were acclaimed and ended their stay with a short "whistle stop" talk off-the-cuff, or accepted graciously any demonstration accorded them.

The coming of Harry S. Truman Wednesday, Oct. 8, for a brief talk from the rear platform of his special train, which carried him into the west for addresses in behalf of Adlai Stevenson for President, brings memories to many Sedalians, old and young, of visits here by the nation's chief executives many years ago and more recently.

Hayes Was First Here

The first of them was President Rutherford B. Hayes, an Ohioan, who with his wife and son, Burchard Hayes, on Sept. 24, 1879, on a western tour by special train, were guests, together with members of his party, at the Col. A. D. Jaynes' mansion, Broadway and Ohio, which was where Garst's Drive-In is now located.

A special breakfast by Sicher Bros., was served as a throng stood on the walks and streets surrounding the spacious home. Then President Hayes, at insistence of the cheering throng, made a brief address in which he expressed general satisfaction in the growth and importance of Sedalia, a city then of about 15,000 and asserted the surrounding country was as fine as any he ever saw, "equaling the far famed blue grass region of Kentucky."

He was introduced by Col. John

F. Phillips, one of Sedalia's staunch and influential citizens of that day.

President Hayes, a heavily bearded and large man, made an imposing figure as he stood on the front porch of the Jaynes home and made his address.

Gen. Sherman Here, Too

Gen. W. T. Sherman, with the Hayes' party, made a short talk and then as the throng disbanded the distinguished party of visitors went to the special train departing for Ft. Scott, Kan., and other points, for a southwestern swing about the country.

Among those with the party were Jerome B. Stilson, special correspondent of the New York Herald, and Frank B. Nevins, Chicago, agent for the Associated Press.

Taft Came To Fair

President William Howard Taft, serving 1909 to 1913, was a distinguished guest at the opening of the Missouri State Fair in 1911, on Saturday, Sept. 30.

Thousands poured into Sedalia on special trains and most all other methods of transportation at that time to greet the chief executive of the United States who spent about 12 hours here. This was the longest period of time any president, among the few to visit Sedalia during tenure of office, tarried in Sedalia.

It was a great throng that accorded him a most hearty welcome and as he alighted from his private car, "Ideal," he was greeted by Gov. Herbert S. Hadley, then turned over to the reception committee.

He proceeded to a new even passenger Rambler automobile, which was in wait for him and in which he rode to the privilege of riding before aside from the chauffeur, G. R. Lundane, Kansas City.

Governor Hadley In Escort

Gov. Hadley, Major Archibald

W. Butt, U.S. army, ADC, secret service men occupied the presidential automobile and a special detail of mounted police from St. Louis formed an escort for the president.

State officials, members of the president's party, local dignitaries in business and industry, together with city officials, occupied 20 automobiles that formed a parade through the fair grounds to the plaudits of the throng of early risers at the fair to get a glimpse of the president as he first left his train.

There was no politics in the demonstration as the eleventh Missouri State Fair opened and during the forenoon a patriotic address was delivered by the president in the magnificent $100,000 livestock pavilion.

Mule Show Impressive

Mr. Taft was greatly impressed with the mule show that was presented and the "Buckeye" state statesman was most favorably impressed with the welcome accorded him in the "Show Me" state.

The ride in the parade of automobiles with their occupants, through the most attractive part of Sedalia, seemingly was enjoyed to the fullest by Mr. Taft and party.

As an added attraction for the Taft party, Col. L. M. Monsees, one of the world's most famous breeders of Jacks and Jennets, was in charge of a parade of mules that strung out almost the entire circuit of the mile track at the fair grounds.

Hugh Robinson, a daring aviator of that time, thrilled the visitors and grandstand crowd, and those about the grounds, with flights in a Curtiss biplane and an excellent racing program was presented.

Missouri Embarks on $439 Million 10-Year Road Plan

State Has Spent $114 Millions In Past Six Years and Under Consideration Now Are Two Toll Roads Over, Above New Plan

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—Missouri has just embarked on a ten-year, $557,000,000 highway modernization program.

That doesn't mean the state has been sitting around all these years doing nothing to speed the traveler on his way, though. Missouri has been spending every road dollar it can lay hands on since the end of World War II—plus all it piled up during the constructionless war years—to repair and modernize the roads.

Take what's been done and is planned on the major road system for comparative purposes:

Since 1946, Missouri has spent $114,066,441 in state and federal money in an effort to bring the major road system up to date, in the sort of shape they should be to handle today's high-speed, crowded traffic.

By the end of this year about $20,000,000 more work will have been awarded by contract. Make it a round figure of $134 million for the seven years since the end of World War II.

Under the just begun 10-year program, Missouri will spend about $439 million on the major system.

Not only that but the state legislature is studying the possibility of establishing two toll roads in the state. One would approximately parallel U. S. Highway 66 from St. Louis in eastern Missouri to Joplin in the southwestern part of the state.

The other would stretch between Kansas City on the west and St. Louis on the east. But even the most ardent backers of toll roads don't think the preliminaries can be completed in less than six years.

To get the money for the 10-year program, Missourians finally submitted to an increase from two to three cents a gallon on the gasoline tax. That came by legislative action this year—after recent earlier failures of similar tax increase plans. There also was a proportionate increase in the tax on other motor fuels, plus a hike in the fees bus and truck operators must pay.

Before the state could expect only about $4,000,000 a year in fees from the heavy highway users. Now these fees will bring in about $11 to $12 million each year.

The state highway commission has promised that during the 10-year period better than $297 million will be used to modernize the major system routes in the rural and urban areas. Another $412 million has been consigned for building trafficways through or around the metropolitan areas.

St. Louis, plus its surrounding metropolitan area, housing almost half the urban population in Missouri, will get about $79 million worth of construction out of the latter fund. Kansas City will get some $34 million worth of traffic easing projects.

In addition, Missouri will take over some 12,000 miles of rural roads for construction and maintenance—to add to its present supplementary highway system. That will take $118 million of the program funds.

The outlook for Missouri's highway system appears bright. Just the other day Fred D. Harris, a top department engineer, said he the threshold of relieving its traffic muddle."

Can Fee Easily

Sheriff John F. Taylor said they have not had any trouble with prisoners wanting to escape for considerable time, and indicated that as long as the present jail is in the same condition, there will always be escapes from time to time. The reason the trio was not locked in "Big Four," which is also known as the "cage," was there were no indications these men were the jail breaker type.

If all prisoners kept in the county jail were in the "cage," there wouldn't be room for them.

"Another reason we do not like to place anyone in big four is, if the jail should ever catch on fire it would be almost impossible to save anyone in it," Sheriff Taylor said. "Concluding, he said, 'I actually hate to put a desperate criminal in it for that reason, and we had no reason to believe any of the three were what could be termed desperate criminals.'"

Sheriff Holcomb for Fear

Pearshall was to have been returned to Coudersport, Pa., Tuesday by Sheriff Harold C. Holcomb of that town. He is sheriff of Potter County, where Pearshall had been charged with forgery in connection with (the sheriff said) allegedly writing checks on his mother and forging her name. He had written several hundred dollars worth of checks from Aug. 14 to Sept. 5, there.

Sheriff Holcomb arrived Monday night in company with his deputy Bert Seabolt and Arney Hoskins, Hudson dealer at Coudersport, from whom Pearshall had bought a car. Their trip hasn't been a complete loss as Hoskins succeeded in selling the car—a Chevrolet convertible—Tuesday morning and had hopes of selling another car recovered for him at Moberly.

Sheriff Holcomb said Pearshall has had considerable trouble over worthless checks.

Powers Held for Kansas

Marvin Powers was being detained as a parole violator from Kansas. He had married a 14-year-old girl in Kansas City recently and then went to Indiana where he had some difficulties. He was picked up last week by Howard Boswell, Missouri parole officer.

The state officers were waiting word from Kansas as to whether they wanted him returned or would permit him to remain on parole.

Wescott Faces Forgery Charge

William Wescott, 21, Hale, is charged with second degree forgery. He was waiting trial in the next term of criminal court.

XXVI
JOHN led the Governor into the living room and I went into the music room and switched on the radio. I was afraid my own nervousness would show if I stayed in the living room, and would affect the Governor. Melvin Fisher followed me in, and said as I bent to the dial, "What I want to know is what to do with those 250 straw hats."

"Straw hats?" I said.
"And sunbonnets," he said. "For the kids. We got all those straw hats and sunbonnets for the kids to wear in the parade."

I shrugged my shoulders. The program had already begun in Birmingham and a United States senator was introducing the Governor. I sat down to listen to the Governor's speech.

Through the open door I could see across the hall into the living room, where the Governor sat at a table with the manuscript in front of him. He looked sad and tired. I knew it was an expression that characteristically came on his face when he was waiting to speak and had drained his mind of thought until the signal came to the group of newspapermen, who were not familiar with his traits, he must have seemed a worried man.

When he started speaking the Governor's tone was low, and I saw the radio engineer fiddling with his dials, but as he warmed up, his voice gained power. I waited for the time when he would have to lay the manuscript aside and speak from notes. There had been so much on the Governor's mind the past 48 hours that I was afraid he would have trouble speaking extemporaneously, but I should have known the Governor better. He went on speaking from the notes without a pause.

He had ten minutes yet to go when I heard a knock on the front door. It sounded loud in the hushed house, and the radiomen turned their heads and frowned. I hurried to the door and opened it. Melvin Fisher stood at the sill, and Clyde McDonald's bulk loomed behind her. . . .

I MOTIONED them into the music room, and indicated chairs, but before he sat down Clyde said, "Roy, it's too bad about Ruth Warburton. I met the lady at the convention and she's okay."

I met his small eyes; there seemed to be no cynical gleam.
"Why, thanks, Clyde," I said. He lighted a cigaret and dropped into a chair, and I looked down at him, wondering how much Ginny Perkins had to do with it, and how much of it I could believe.

Lucy Strawn tiptoed downstairs before the Governor had finished, and appeared smiling at the door of the music room. She had been a busy girl in the hour since I had seen her in the hall, and her entrance was effective. Clyde McDonald rolled his head around to look at her, and Ginny's shoulders became noticeably more erect.

The radio drummed with applause from the faraway Birmingham meeting, and I got up and turned it off. I imagined that in Birmingham, Bill Evers breathed a sigh of relief, as I did. In the room across the hall the reporters were crowding in around the Governor, and I hastened over to run interference. But the Governor chose to remain and answer a few questions. His wife was doing well, he said, as well as could be expected. They were awaiting the crisis and he would remain at her bedside until it had passed.

The reporters moved on to the door, which John Mills held open, but Melvin Fisher lingered, and approached the Governor diffidently. His rasping voice was pitched low, and sounded unnatural. "Willie, I'm right concerned about Ruth," he said. "If there's anything I can do, I wish you'd call on me."

"Thank you, Mel," the Governor said. "I will. Indeed I will."

Melvin Fisher smiled, gave the Governor's hand a disengaging shake, and turned away. John Mills let him out the door then pushed it shut hard.

From the stair well a voice called, "John, have the reporters gone?"
"Yes, all gone, Agnes."
The Governor heaved a mighty sigh and said, "Well, that's over." He grinned at me, and my answering grin froze on my face as a clear, singing came drifting down from the floor above.

"Will," it said, "come on up here. You haven't even said hello."

I lifted my eyes and saw Ruth Warburton there at the head of the stairs, standing in her pink negligee with one hand on the railing. . . .
SHE was not aware, as I was in every jumping nerve, that Clyde McDonald was there in the house, sitting in the music room just across the hall. She thought that all the reporters were gone, and she did not see Clyde until Clyde's red head appeared under the hall chandelier and his sharp eyes turned staring toward the stairs.

Ginny Perkins cried, "Why, it's Mrs. Warburton!"
Lucy Strawn had the presence of mind to whirl on the stairs and call, "Somebody telephone the doctor. She must be delirious. Roy, call the doctor quick!"

"I'll do it," John Mills said.
Clyde McDonald stood with his feet wide apart. "What's going on here?" he said and slowly turned to face the Governor. There was a wise, malicious smile on his lips. "So she's got pneumonia, has she?" Governor Warburton acted with the characteristic hard-hitting Warburton directness. He hit hard and with excellent direction and Clyde never saw the fist coming. Neither did I, until I heard a solid blow and saw Clyde's heavy body topple backward in the hall. I looked down at his slack face and said, "Governor, I guess that does it."

"It was worth it, Roy," said Governor Warburton grimly, but with a note of uneasiness.

Odds and Ends
By News Staff

Inky created quite a sensation downtown the other day. Inky is the black cocker spaniel that belongs to Carolyn Moser, and people on Ohio avenue got a big laugh as he (or she) jumped out of the basket on Carolyn's bike and started running down the street -- for Inky was wearing a pair of pink knitted panties and each of her nice long curly ears was tied with a big bow of pink ribbon. Inky had a hat on, too, a little round pink paper hat that was held on with a rubber band.

Inky, Carolyn and a girl friend of Carolyn's raced up and down the main drag, and into one of the dime stores where Inky was the center of attraction. The customers stopped, the clerks stopped and everybody seemed to be having a big time watching the dog that seemed very proud to be all dressed up in his (or her) pink outfit.

We tried to find out about Inky. "Is Inky a boy or a girl?" we asked, to which one of the little girls promptly replied: "Oh, he is a boy on week days and a girl on Sunday."

We could see instantly that Inky was a very unusual dog, but we never dreamed he -- (it was a week day) was that unusual. But there was one thing certain about it -- if he is a girl on Sunday he sure had on his Sunday clothes Friday.

A group of women sat about the dining room table one evening addressing invitations while the man of the house stood on a ladder in the archway between the dining room and the living room painting. It was necessary for the man to stretch himself pretty far to paint a distant spot. He felt he could to the job by stretching instead of getting down and moving the ladder over a little, but the more he stretched the more his trousers slipped. He was a determined man, however, he was going to paint that little spot regardless so he continued to lean at an absurd angle even though he did feel the trousers going down little by little.

The girls weren't paying any attention, they were too busy with their work and their chatter -- but suddenly his sister-in-law looked up and was amazed at what she saw -- for there on the ladder stood the man painting away, in a colorful pair of striped shorts and from there downward a pair of bare masculine legs -- around his ankles were the pants that had given up the struggle and dropped completely down.

That did it. If the sister-in-law had waited just a few minutes longer the man could have finished his work of a pulled up his trousers, climbed off the ladder and nobody would have ever known -- but she looked up just at the wrong time. The man did get his clothes back on and got off the ladder but not until his job was finished.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round Facts On Eisenhower's 'Crusade In Europe'

LOS ANGELES — Here are the inside facts on General Eisenhower's book, "Crusade In Europe," and the much-discussed capital-gains tax which the Bureau of Internal Revenue granted him.

The ruling is estimated to have saved Ike in the neighborhood of half a million dollars. Later, Congress adopted an amendment closing the loophole.

After a preliminary talk with Internal Revenue, Eisenhower wrote a letter to Undersecretary of the Treasury, Archibald Wiggins on Dec. 20, 1947 outlining the following facts:

"Certain publishers have urged me to write a personal memoir of the war years.

"The proposal is that the publisher take in one transaction the complete bundle of rights. The sale would completely divorce me from further control over the manuscript. It would produce no further income to me.

"I am not a professional writer in any sense of the word.

"I am anxious to comply with every requirement of the law."

Eisenhower then asked the question: "Will the Treasury Department regard this transaction as a capital gain or as an income?"

On Dec. 22, 1947 — two days later — which was extremely fast action for the Treasury, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Schoeneman gave Eisenhower a reply. Ordinarily a reply on a matter of this kind does not come for months — frequently longer.

Schoeneman wrote that Eisenhower's book looked like a capital asset transaction, but pointed out that Ike would have to hold the completed manuscript six months before he was to get a capital gain.

Seven days later, on Dec. 29, Donald Riechberg, a partner of Ambassador Joseph E. Davies who first suggested the capital-gains tax to Eisenhower, wrote Commissioner Schoeneman:

"I am acting as volunteer adviser to General Eisenhower in regard to his memoirs."

Riechberg then proceeded to raise some technical questions about the capital-gains tax, apparently to make sure that Ike's contract with the publishers would contain the clauses necessary to insure a capital-gains tax.

The General then waited nearly a year. In this time the book was completed, and, after completion, it was held six additional months. Then he wrote another letter to Internal Revenue. Commissioner Schoeneman replied, Dec. 7, 1948: "You state you completed 'Crusade In Europe' on March 24, 1948, that you held the manuscript and all rights for more than six months after completion, and that on Oct. 1, 1948 you sold the book to Doubleday and Doran, Inc. . . . All rights to the book."

"In view of the above you request that the gains be classed as long-term capital gains."

"This office will recommend the approval of a closing agreement on the following basis:

"The manuscript entitled 'Crusade in Europe' completed by you on March 24, 1948, was a capital asset within the meaning of Sect. 117 (A) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code, and the amount of $635,000 received by you upon the sale of

Give Handicapped A Chance, Speaker Advises Rotarians

Charles A. Ricker, director of the Division of Employment Security, Jefferson City, addressed the Monday noon meeting of the Sedalia Rotary Club on the subject "Employment of the Physically Handicapped."

Mr. Ricker pointed out that of the 63,000,000 people employed in the United States labor market today, over 7,000,000 are handicapped in some manner.

He stated that an employer should hire people for the abilities they have, not for the abilities they do not have.

Visitors were: James C. Woodsmall, Sedalia, guest of George Routsong, Leon M. Hall, Sedalia, guest of Ralph Carrel; Richard Goodheart, Sedalia, guest of Guy Peabody, Visiting Rotarians were: Rev. H. J. Simon and Rev. W. C. Becker, Warrensburg, and Larry Griffith, Port Allegany, Pa.

Dr. Roy Keller, chairman of the Junior Rotarian program, presented Henry Dick, Sacred Heart High School, and Earl Nold, Smith-Cotton High School, Junior Rotarians for October.

The meeting was presided over by William Hurlbut Jr., president. Invocation was given by Rev. Tom Croxton and the Rev. D. Warren Neal led the singing.

Selken Holsteins Score Heavily At Kansas Fair

Holstein entries of the Ernest and Paul Selken Farms at Smithton scored heavily at the Kansas State Fair last week.

The 2800 design Pontiac Claude was named senior and grand champion bull after a close class with last year's national winner from the Elmwood Farms of Chicago, Ill.

Seluhm Truine Model Girl, a senior yearling heifer, was named champion (female) under two years, her fifth such win of the season.

The Selkens also showed the first bull calf, first two year old bull, first aged bull, first senior yearling heifer, first aged cow and the special award for the best three females of the show.

The show was judged by Dr. Dwight Seath of the University of Kentucky and attracted many of the top show herds of the mid-western states.

Major Jamison Tells Sorosis Of Air Base and Its Progress

With a southern accent and a good deal of humor, Major Wallace Jamison told members of Sorosis Monday afternoon of the progress being made at the Sedalia Air Force Base. Major Jamison, who is with the Bell Telephone Company in Atlanta, Ga., but was called back in service as a reservist, expects to complete his duties in November at the base and return home again to civilian life.

With Major Jamison was Maj. M. F. West, who has been at the base two weeks and who assisted Major Jamison in answering questions asked by the women at the conclusion of the talk.

Major Jamison told of Col. Leonard S. Flo, who is in charge of the base, and the work that had been done at the base under his direction since he arrived there almost a year ago. Giving a bit of background of Col. Flo, Major Jamison said that he was the first pilot to fly contract air mail, was the 22nd man to parachute from a plane and was the first man to make a non-stop flight across the United States from coast to coast.

When Col. Flo arrived at the base in November of December of last year, its condition was not too good, but buildings have been removed and quite a number built—all well built, the speaker said, because it is the belief of Col. Flo that it takes only a little more to go first class and it is certainly never a waste of money to do things right. At the same time, Major Jamison said, Col. Flo is economical and tries always to get the most out of the taxpayers' dollar.

The base, said Major Jamison, is part of the Strategic Air Command with the prime mission to train young airmen who are physically fit that they may be ready for bombing missions should the need come. When men return from a mission fatigued, the Strategic Air Command has found that the Scandinavian methods of the steam bath and massage does wonders for the crewmen who then fall asleep and when they awaken are refreshed and rested, ready to go again.

Only a small number of men are at the base at present, Major Jamison said, about 200 airmen and 16 officers. The officers have been overseeing the plans at the base, seeing that the Air Force specifications and needs are met with supplies and material for the Air Base, Group and Technical Wing which will arrive when the base is completed. Major Jamison told of the condition of the building at first, stating that the mess hall was a building never intended to be a mess hall. But now things are getting in fairly good shape and will continue with contracts to be let in October and November which Major Jamison estimates will be approximately $19,000,000. The contracts in December will be few, but more big contracts will be let in January, the speaker said.

The building of the base, Major Jamison said, seems slow but it is better that way. He stated that there would probably not be much activity as far as its use as a base is concerned until at least the middle of next year. He added it is well for Sedalia to be ready with its housing when the construction men and their families and the men from the base do come in—there will be a great need for homes, for more business, for entertainment for the young men at the base.

There are already young airmen at the base and they need recreation, Major Jamison said. This is where Sedalia can do a wonderful work in taking the boys into their homes for parties, to invite them to take part in the various activities in town, for organizations to plan entertainment for them. They are all high type young men and probably homesick. They need good wholesome entertainment and young friends. These boys will come from schools in which they have had special training, Major Jamison said, and they will be stationed at the base at least 18 months. They need to become a part of the community.

Major Jamison, in conclusion, made an appeal to Sedalians to take these young men in their hearts as they had taken him and his wife since they came here about the first of the year. "When I go back to the south," he said, "I am going to tell them of the wonderful hospitality of the west, the hospitality I found in Sedalia."

The speaker and Major West were introduced by Mrs. Herb E. Studer, current topics chairman. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. T. H. Yount, in the absence of the president, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, who was out of town. Mrs. Gilbert Jones announced that the following had been accepted as new members of Sorosis: Mrs. Bert Hathaway, Mrs. W. A. Beckmeyer, Mrs. Lon Leslie, Mrs. A. W. Johns, Mrs. Leo Eickhoff and Mrs. W. H. Eichholz.

An announcement was made by Mrs. A. L. Waters that a luncheon for new members, sponsors, co-sponsors and officers would be held at 12:30 p. m. next Monday with reservations to be in by Friday.

Mrs. L. H. Archias, civics chairman, announced the speaker for next week will be Mrs. Tyree G. Newbill, of Kansas City, a director on the national board of the Federation of Music Clubs, who will take for her subject: "Invisible Armor."

A luncheon in honor of Major Jamison and Major West preceded the meeting.

Miss Mae Everett reviewed "Community Life and Associated Women of the World" at a meeting of the Hughesville Extension Club Oct. 1 at the home of Mrs. Edwin Bruening.

The devotionals were given by Mrs. John Fowler.

Mrs. Stanton Elliott was welcomed as a new member. Plans for Achievement Day on Oct. 17 were discussed. Also a chili supper and a country store were planned.

The next meeting will be on Nov. 5 at the home of Mrs. Fred Hoos, with Mrs. Walter Smith and Mrs. Edwin Williams assisting. Mrs. Clarence Eulp will give a book review.

Canada's average yield per acre of tobacco in 1951 was 1,293 pounds.

Dispute Medical Report

American Medical Ass'n. Slaps Back At 'Fact Book'

On Costs of Care

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sharp sidekick developed today as President Truman's controversial health commission met to consider the question of how best to pay the American doctor bill.

The dispute resulted from issuance by the American Medical Association (AMA) of a press release quoting AMA Economist Frank G. Dickinson as saying a "Fact Book" on medical care costs prepared by the commission presents "only half the story of medical economics" and "gives nothing on what we (the American people) get for what we spend."

Dickinson was scheduled to address a meeting sponsored by the commission itself—and the AMA embargoed release of his remarks for 12 noon (EST) today.

The spokesman for the commission, who said he had seen the AMA release, told a reporter the commission "protests the making of a charge—in an advance press release, without opportunity for refutation—against a fact book which was actually designed only as a rough statistical compilation of facts on what is spent for medical care."

"The quality of medical care is quite another matter," he added. "That is, what we get for what we spend is a matter of judgment."

He said furthermore that the "Fact Book"—prepared by the commission on the basis of statistics gathered from various sources—"was designed for the information of individuals who would attend to the subject" and "was not intended as a commission hearing on the subject."

The commission was scheduled to hear testimony from adherents of the two opposing plans for prepayment of medical costs—a national government insurance and voluntary private insurance.

The commission spokesman said the book had not been issued publicly and that when distributed to hearing participants it carried a precaution against quoting from it in advance of today's meeting. He granted, however, that it was intended as one basis of discussion at the meeting.

just poled one into the stands—a good one."

"You mean," said Wilbur bristling, "I missed the only chance of my life to see Mize knock a home run?"

"I missed it myself. Your wife was bending my ear."

"It went right in front of us," said Trellis Mae. "You could almost count the stitches."

She took the hot dog and objected, "You forgot the mustard, dear. I just can't eat it without mustard."

Too stunned to protest, Wilbur went back for the mustard. The Dodger fan leaned over and whispered something to Trellis Mae. She looked surprised, then nodded her head.

Trellis Mae ate her hot dog, then pulled out a sheet of paper and silently began to make out her Christmas shopping list. She never even looked out again at the playing field.

As they filed out at the end of the game the red-nosed man grudgingly drew a bill from his pocket and put it in her hand.

"I'll bet you don't even know who won," said Wilbur glumly.

"I did."

"Sure," said Trellis Mae. "That red-nosed fellow asked me $5. I couldn't keep my mouth shut for the rest of the game. Wait here a minute, Wilbur."

She loped away and returned 15 minutes later breathlessly lugging a ball bat.

"He didn't want to give it to me at first," said Trellis Mae. "But I told him he would need a new one next year anyway."

Surprised, her husband took the bat, then reverently read the inscription: "To Wilbur, one to remember. (signed) Johnny Mize."

As Wilbur gratefully bent to kiss her, Trellis Mae murmured:

"I tried to get you one of those little white pillows for a souvenir, too, but some darned fool had tied them all down."

City Council--

which the petition of the Broadway and Missouri residents was read, protesting the City making an agreement with the State Highway Department to widen the streets and paving them.

This petition was filed by Donald R. Anderson, 600 West Third, who spoke briefly on it Mayor Studer checked the long list of names.

Mayor Studer assured the audience no such agreement had been entered into by the city. He said, "I want to dispell rumors floating around town of such an agreement. I assure you the Council will give it much thought before such an agreement will be entered into."

Sam Harlan, a Broadway resident, spoke against such an agreement and recalled similar petition being filed with the Council in 1941 and "nothing came of it," he said. Mr. Harlan recommended, by-passing highways for trucks, buses and freight trucks.

Ferguson Speaks For NAACP
Fred Ferguson then was recognized and spoke in behalf of the petition filed by the NAACP group. He also discussed the poor condition of the streets on the northside.

He then referred to the lack of equipment at Hospital No. 2 and explained a majority of the Negro population was going to Kansas City, Jefferson City, Columbia and Boonville for hospitalization.

"No use saying we don't want it, I do say our people do want it here in Sedalia."

Dr. A. R. Maddox, superintendent of the hospital, agreed the hospital lacked equipment. "I don't want my people to misunderstand my position. Some thought I was perfectly satisfied with our hospital. This is not true. We do not have the facilities."

Dr. Maddox stated he had excellent co-operation with the Mayor's office as far as Mayor Studer could go, but also said he was informed when asking for various things, "We just don't have the money."

Oscar Lawson also spoke regarding the hospital.

Mrs. Melvin Emerson, registered nurse of the hospital, also said the hospital is equipped inadequately.

Councilman Elmer Sumners informed the group the Finance Committee, of which he is chairman, would meet with Dr. Maddox to discuss the situation.

Ordinances for Sewers
An ordinance was introduced forbidding parking on Main, 20 feet east from Prospect, and 20 feet west from Prospect. Two ordinances, letting contracts for construction in Sewer Districts 84 and 85, were read for the first time.

Councilman Berry objected to a junk yard at Fifth and Limit. The mayor ordered action to be taken under a recently passed ordinance governing junk yards, if the owner did not comply with the wishes of the city.

The city bills, as follows, were approved: fire department, $166.52; police department, $384.83; Hospital No. 2, $172.09; sanitation department, $1,604.73; public buildings, $598.69; street and alleys, $2,006.09; contingent account, $1,462.80; lights, water and miscellaneous, $3,977.87; total $10,373.63.

Reports on Streets
Councilman Carleton Kelly, the chairman of the streets and alleys committee, reported the condition at Main and Prospect for drainage is still bad. He also reported the city would proceed to grade 24th and properly place the gravel which the residents of that area put on the street.

He also recommended the purchase in Adak, Alaska, charges mental cruelty. They were married Nov. 22, 1951.

County Court

W. B. Rissler, 201 West Main, was issued a license to serve liquor by the drink for six months, expiring Dec. 31, 1952.

Truman Says Was Mistaken About Ike's Qualifications

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (AP)—President Truman declared today he made "a very serious mistake" when he once thought Dwight D. Eisenhower qualified for the presidency.

He declared the GOP nominee has "betrayed every principle about our foreign policy and our national defense that I thought he believed in."

"It has been a sad experience for me," Truman said in a speech prepared for delivery to a train crowd at Colorado Springs, Colo.

"Truman said the President 'has the awful responsibility' of deciding whether to use the atomic bomb and must be a man 'who can stand up to the political pressure when he has to make tough decisions.'"

He also accused Eisenhower of trying to win voters "by playing upon the casualties of sacrifices in Korea" and talking about "blunders" that led up to Korea when "he joined in the decision to pull our troops out of Korea in the first place."

Truman has acknowledged before Eisenhower's story in his book, "Crusade in Europe," that he told the general at Potsdam in 1945 he would support him for anything he might seek, specifically including the presidency. But, he thought the general was a Democrat.

In bitter language, Truman repeated the question he said people were asking: "Didn't you once think Ike Eisenhower" was qualified to be President?"

"That is true," the President said. "I did." Then, he told the Colorado voters:

"But I made a very serious mistake when I thought he had the

Kem Accused Of 'Reckless, Basic Distortion'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The head of a St. Louis engineering firm today accused Sen. James P. Kem of making a "reckless, basic and serious distortion" in a campaign attack on Stuart Symington, the Democratic opposing Kem in his bid for re-election.

L. J. Sverdrup, president of Sverdrup & Parcel, Inc., and of eminent's wind tunnel project at Tullahoma, Tenn., said the Republican senator's statement "reflects upon the integrity and patriotism of many persons."

Kem charged at a GOP rally at Flat River Saturday that Symington, former air force secretary, personally made the decision to award a cost plus fixed fee to and for the project.

He sought to feather the nests of several of his friends at the time and "under the defense effort," Kem said.

Sverdrup said that Kem, after requesting notice of a senatorial hearing at which the ARO projects were discussed last July, failed to attend the sessions.

Sverdrup cited testimony by Gen. James J. Doolittle before a Senate hearing that "ARO is doing an excellent job." He also quoted Maj. Gen. F. O. Carroll, former head of the air force project, as saying "the fee paid ARO was the lowest paid to any similar agency for the operation of a military project."

chase of a transit for City Engineer James L. Collins. The council voted to make the purchase at a cost of about $625.

Councilman Ira White reported a claim for 35 acres of leased land by W. F. Kendrick for $250. The crop had been destroyed by fire in 1951 near the Sedalia garbage disposal grounds.

The council authorized the expenditure of money for new winter uniforms for the police department as set up in the budget last spring. The expenditure will be made in November, however.

"The reason," Mayor Studer explained, "that the city is now in the period of the year when finances are low, and taxes will not start to come in in any large amounts until November. We are going to stay within our expected revenue and budgets."

Spraying Completed
Councilman Clyde Swafford, chairman of the sanitary committee, announced spraying of the city against polio had been completed at a cost of approximately $476.

The council also voted the city against polio had been completed. The city had been contracted to use of their truck and spraying equipment.

The monthly reports of the officers were read by City Clerk Fred Handley. The reports were accepted and approved.

Councilman H. O. Berry requested a street light on Stewart between Pettis and the Missouri Pacific railroad tracks. It is approved.

Burn $150 Of Bonds
Fifteen interest coupons of $10 each on the public sewer bonded indebtedness were burned by Councilmen Swafford and Sumner, chairman of the finance committee.

The following liquor applications were approved: New application for 3.2 beer for one year, expiring Oct. 1, 1953, by William H. Bingham, 11th and Limit; renewal of a 3.2 beer license to Maude Baker, 1717 West Broadway; renewal license to sell liquor by the drink to Frank and Meta Brosch for the Bungalow; renewal for 3.2 beer license for the Wheel Inn, Broadway and Limit; renewal for package liquor of the Tally-Ho Drive In, 1419 South Limit.

Bryan Reports

Against Official Advice, He Tours Uncle Joe's Section of Berlin and Finds Great Propaganda Program Being Carried Out

(By The Rev. David M. Bryan)
(This is the final dispatch from the pastor of the First Christian Church, Sedalia, on his round the world tour. It was received too late to be published before the minister arrived back home Saturday night.)

BERLIN, Russian Sector: — To be sure this report was not mailed from East Berlin or you would never read it, but it does concern my interesting visit to this Russian held territory. Soon after my arrival in this city I went to see the American Consul about the possibility of visiting Red Berlin. I was told that as a matter of routine it was his business to advise against it. He warned that if I found myself in any trouble the United States government would be powerless to help me. However, unofficially he told me he didn't believe there was any real danger as long as I was careful not to excite any suspicion and above all not to flaunt my camera or be seen taking any pictures. With these precautions in mind I hired a special guide and spent several hours inspecting Uncle Joe's Berlin holdings.

Certainly in so short a visit one cannot become an expert on the communist sector of Berlin. Nevertheless, there are some significant facts that are obvious even to the superficial observer. The first thing that impresses the visitor to this area of Berlin is the tremendous propaganda program that is underway there. As soon as one steps across the border he is met by a barrage of signs and posters of every description. Most of them suggest in some way that communism is the real protector of peace, freedom, and justice in this world. They are adorned with pictures of Stalin many buildings and signboards and usually carry some such caption as "Russia is our real friend". Just anything is fodder fit to be run through the communist propaganda machine and it always comes out the same. Communism opposes the capitalist warmongers and stands for peace and freedom. Imposing war memorials remind East Berliners of the Russian heroes who died to "liberate" Germany from capitalism and fascism, and signs on conspicuous building projects assure them that these are being built by the people and for the people and not for some capitalist overlord.

These are not crude signs but well-executed posters. The famous Unter den Linden Blvd. now used for parades and reviews, is lined with loud speakers that carry the propaganda to the crowds. It no longer leads to the old Berlin Palace. That famous landmark has been removed. It now leads where all communist roads lead, to a Red Square where the masses must bow in idolatry before a great statue of Joseph Stalin, their god and benefactor.

One thing is sure. The communists know how to take their cause to the people. Their propaganda machine runs smoothly, efficiently, and continuously. Before it is too late we must learn from them the importance of mass education. We have not only the resources and skill on our side, but what is most important of all we have also the truth. Truth is stronger than a lie, but truth must be heard! We have depended almost entirely upon the feeble voice of America without realizing that the masses of the world's people don't even have shoes, much less radios. The peoples of the world have the right to hear of an alternative to Red totalitarianism and we have the duty to take to them the cause of a free democratic world. I left the Red sector filled with both respect for and fear of the communist propaganda machine. Here lies our most miserable failure in Europe and Asia — we have not yet devised effective means of proclaiming to her people the "good news" of freedom and democracy.

Another conspicuous feature in the East Berlin landscape is the striking number of Handelsongenization or "H. O." stores. In the Russian sector goods are theoretically under rigid ration and price control. The people receive ration cards permitting them to buy certain quantities of food and clothing on the regular market at a fixed price. The catch is that these goods rarely reaches the "legal" market. However, everywhere in the sector one finds these large government owned "H. O." stores where goods from butter to autos may be purchased without ration cards. There is usually a joker in every communist deal; in this instance it is the fact that commodities in an "H. O." store range from two to three times what they cost on the normal market. But with goods being channeled into these "H. O."s they are rarely available anywhere else and ration cards are useless. The "H. O." store is really a government owned and operated black-market from which people are forced to buy at exorbitant prices.

Before I went over to the East Side, a West Berliner said to me, "Look at the people's feet and you can tell where they live." He meant that the worn conditions and the shoddy workmanship of their shoes would betray them. I discovered that he spoke quite accurately. One does immediately notice an economic difference between the two sections of this city. The people are more poorly dressed, have fewer cars, and there are fewer signs of private reconstruction of bombed out homes and businesses in the East Side. The people here are less well paid than their brothers in the Western sector and their mark is worth just one fourth the Deutsche Mark of the other side. Because of this favorable 1 to 4 exchange rate, people from the West are always going into the communist sector to shop and then smuggle their goods back home. The difference is also betrayed by the fact that West Berliners have not seen a ration card for months while for their "liberated" neighbors everything from butter to underwear is on the rationed list. A German girl working at our embassy here said to me, "When I hear people complaining about our conditions here I always say to them, go take a walk through communist East Berlin and you'll feel better". Certainly the contrast must be just as obvious to the other side. How bewildering it must be for them as they hear the party machine grinding out its monotonous speech about the oppressive life in capitalist countries to look across the border and see their "unliberated" cousins going about better fed, better clothed, better housed, and more freely than they.

I have two more stops between here and Sedalia: Paris and London. However, this will probably be my last report to you except for a single "I'm home again!"

Spud Shortage Seen In Spring; Bigger '53 Crop

WASHINGTON (AP)—There may be another potato shortage next spring, the Agriculture Department said today.

Because its outlook on the Sept. 1 for 1953 as a whole, however, farmers probably will produce more potatoes and other fresh market crops than in 1952 if the weather is average or better.

It added that supply and demand prospects indicate prices will average slightly below this year's levels.

A seasonal drop in potato prices is expected when the 1952 late crop begins to move in volume, the report added.

Next year's production of truck crops may be larger than this year when unfavorable weather in some areas reduced the yields, causing alternate periods of glut and scarcity and sharp price variations, the department said.

Because its high prices received for most truck crops in the last two years, the department predicted growers likely will attempt to produce at least as large a volume as this year and in that event grower and consumer prices probably will average a little lower than in 1952.

The department said prices for canned and frozen vegetables from now until mid-1953 are expected to remain generally near present levels.

He is Cpl. James D. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Williams of Ionia. An employee of Ionia Producer's Exchange before entering the Marine Corps, Williams now serves as a mail clerk at the 3rd Division Post Office. On the recent field problem, the entire post office moved into a portable tent in the mountainous areas of Camp Pendleton, where Cpl. Williams and fellow Marine postal clerks maintained normal mail service for encamped division units. As part of the field training against simulated "aggressors," Williams stood night security watches in the post office area. He is shown crouched in the brush ready to challenge any aggressor near his post. Williams is a 1947 graduate of Cole Camp High School. He completed "boot" camp at Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego last February.

Woman Shoots Armed Robber While He Wrestles Husband

KANSAS CITY (AP)—An armed Landit trying to rob a market was shot to death last night by a 57-year-old woman while the robber was wrestling with her husband. The husband, Felix Giordano, was wounded in the left arm by a bullet fired in the struggle. Mrs. Margaret Giordano fired two shots. One struck the bandit in the chest. Police said the gunman's pistol apparently had not been fired.

Investigators identified the dead man from papers in his pocket as Paul E. Brotherton of Kansas City. Mrs. Giordano told police the man entered the place while she was standing behind the counter and Giordano in front. The intruder pulled a pistol and demanded the cash register and gave him the $17 it contained.

"The next thing I knew," she said, "Felix had grabbed the man, and they were staggering around the room. Felix yelled, 'Get the gun and shoot him!' I grabbed the pistol from under the counter and fired twice. The man gave a little yell and kind of collapsed."

East Germany Shows Fledgling Air Force

BERLIN (AP)—Communist East Germany lifted the curtain on its fledgling air force today for the benefit of Nikolai Shvernik, president of the Soviet Union.

A giant parade in East Berlin's Red Square, with Shvernik in the reviewing stand, included 500 men identified as "air police" of the Soviet zone. They marched briskly along behind 4,000 soldiers of the new "peoples army" and a thousand "sea police."

This was the first public display of the long-rumored "air police," forerunner of a new Communist-run Luftwaffe. There have been some estimates that the force already has 6,000 men, until now confined to ground air base duties.

Matched Clubs Today Decide World Champs

BROOKLYN — Two beautifully matched, equally gifted ball clubs come down to the wire in the seventh game of the World Series at Ebbets Field today, and it is a real chore to try to choose between them.

For six games the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees have fought on even terms. The Yankees, who were almost prohibitive favorites to win their fourth straight world championship with five or six games, finally found their match in Manager Charlie Dressen's comeback kids.

If there was any clue as today's probable winner, it possibly lay in the fact that the Dodgers had won the odd game all the way. They had led 1-0, 2-1 and 3-2 before succumbing in the second time to smokebatter Vic Raschi, 3 to 2 in yesterday's thriller. Today the odd game came up again.

Also, there was the pleasant circumstance for the embattled National League that their great Negro rookie, Joe Black, was ready and anxious to get at the Yankees again after two days of rest. The Bombers could not say quite the same for their ace, Allie Reynolds, who came in to fire 22 pitches and save yesterday's tussle for Vic Raschi.

Except for a brief warmup late in Sunday's fifth game, when it looked as though his stablemate, Carl Erskine, might require some help, Black had not thrown a ball since his losing duel with Reynolds on Saturday, when the Chief choked the Dodgers with a four-hitter.

Yesterday, Black sat in the dug-

Gil Hodges Is Mystery Man Of Series; a Hitless Hitter

BROOKLYN — The mystery man of the 1952 World Series is Gil Hodges.

The husky Brooklyn first baseman hasn't been able to "buy" a base hit in the series to date, yet during the regular season he topped the Dodgers in runs-batted-out while Duke Snider took on the Yankees single-handed, blasting two homers. The first came at the top of the sixth in the tense turkey shoot between Billy Loes and Raschi.

That put the Brooks ahead 1-0. Going into the seventh, they needed to retire only nine more Yankee batters to win their first world title in their noble history.

This observer, for one, expected to see Black vault from the dug-out during the regular season, the ace reliever had virtually proved that no ball club could score on him in three innings.

But Loes, the 22-year-old who on numerous occasions during the regular season had shown himself allergic to pressure, continued to pitch.

It had to happen, and it did. Dressen, who humbly hesitates to second-guess, said later that you couldn't take out a brilliant kid such as Loes under the circumstances. For six innings he had held the Yankees to two singles, one of them a scratch by Billy Cox, which had bounced off Billy Cox's glove at third base.

Additionally, there was the fact that Charlie wanted very much to save Black for today's big decision in the event it proved necessary. Well, it happened.

Yogi Berra tied it up with a homer over the same inviting rightfield barrier to open the seventh. Then it was too late to bring in Black. Within a matter of minutes after that, Loes had surrendered a single to Gene Woodling, he had committed a balk, and Raschi had bounced a single off his leg to put the Yankees out in front, 2-1.

Mickey Mantle made it 3-1 with his tremendous blow into the centerfield seats to begin the eighth, and by the time crafty Preacher Roe came in to pitch to Mantle with one out and two Yankees on base in the top of the ninth, it was too late for the Dodgers to retrieve the victory.

In the meantime, the indomitable Snider had knocked his second homer a mile to pull the National League up to 3-2 in the eighth and put some heart into the sparse Brooklyn crowd of only 30,037. With two down, George Shuba then lined a double down the leftfield line, and that was when Casey Stengel decided Raschi should retire and make room for Reynolds.

Reynolds faced five men and struck out two of them. The stocky Indian did what Black might well have done for the Dodgers if manager Dressen had gambled and brought him forward in the seventh. Casey Stengel, the old form player, gambled. Dressen, the gambler, played it cosy, and he might be sorry before the sun sets over Ebbets Field tonight.

Wisconsin Takes Over No. 1 Spot In Nation's Grid Poll

NEW YORK — The power-laden Badgers of the University of Wisconsin took over first place in the weekly Associated Press football poll today by the simple expedient of beating the favorite in the Big Ten Conference.

The favorite in this case was the University of Illinois, which won the Big Ten championship last year and whipped Stanford in the Rose Bowl. The Illini were rated the choice to go on to another title this time around. But the Badgers' 20-6 triumph over the Illini last Saturday made the 138 sports writers and sports casters, who voted in the second poll, sit up and take notice.

They gave Wisconsin 27 first-place ballots and 1,128 points. The Badgers now are big favorites to win the Big Ten championship and make the trip to the Rose Bowl this year.

The first-week leader, Michigan State, was ranked second with 980 points and 24 firsts. California was third with 961 points and 23 firsts. Maryland polled 834 points with 22 firsts and Georgia Tech rounded out the top five with 734 points and 12 firsts.

Its defeat caused Illinois to be bounced right out of the top 10. The Illini ranked No. 2 a week ago. The same fate befell Texas, fifth last week, only in this case it was worse. The Longhorns, beaten by Notre Dame 14-3, couldn't even make the first 20.

The remainder of the top 10 included Duke (6), Southern California (7), Notre Dame (8), Kansas (9) and Princeton (10). Numbers in parentheses are first-place votes.

Georgia Tech, California and Duke all improved on their position from last week, while the two newcomers, who replaced Illinois and Texas, were Notre Dame and Princeton.

The votes were tabulated on a basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, 8 for third and so on.

Rowekamp, fullback, and Charles Bull, tackle, will be ready for the weekend visitors.

Both Kansas State and Colorado worked out briefly. At Iowa State coach Abe Stuber also put his Cyclones through a light workout and said he will not scrimmage his injury-ridden team this week in preparation for Kansas Saturday.

Rusty Russell's young Mustangs bowed in their opener, 7-14, to Duke Tech, 20-7. So the Texans are still seeking their first victory.

Yesterday Faurot was teaching his Tigers some new plays and offensive formations. He also reported that Buddy Makin, halfback, who suffered a shoulder injury against Kansas State, will be out for several weeks, but Bill

Both Maryland and California, who beat the Tigers, agreed his spread is difficult to stop. The Missourians used the split-T almost entirely against Kansas State in their Big Seven opener Saturday and rolled out a 26-0 victory.

Did Big Gil feel bitter about being taken out? "No, I didn't feel hurt," he said later in the clubhouse. "How far can a manager go? I really sympathize with Dressen."

"What a story it would be if you won the series tomorrow with a homer," exclaimed a reporter.

"What a story I'd make if I just get a hit," quipped Gil in return.

Big Gil has played in previous World Series and has been under pressure in the last several years. In the five-game series in 1949 against the Yankees, Gil got four hits in 17 at bats, including a home run. This makes his current slump more than a mystery.

The Dodger "brass" retains confidence in the husky 200-pounder, however.

Said manager Dressen: "It's just one of those things."

"He's trying too hard right now," declared Dodger vice president Buzzie Bavasi. "But he'll come around. Remember, Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella haven't been hitting, either."

Robinson has three hits in 19 at bats, Campanella four for 24.

Exclaimed Walter O'Malley, Brooklyn president: "I've got all the confidence in the world in Hodges. He'll tattoo the fences in the final game. Yes, sir. He'll tattoo the fences."

Lucky, Unlucky Yogi Is Star Of the Series

BROOKLYN — "I just got lucky. I was anything but lucky the other day."

This was Yogi Berra's explanation of his ups and downs in the World Series, considered by some to be the most exciting championship struggle of all.

Yogi, of course, was referring to his two personal highlights of the series.

He was "lucky" to hit the home run yesterday that tied the score at 1-1 and led to the Yankees' 3-2 triumph over Brooklyn. He was "unlucky" last Friday when he was charged with a passed ball that led to two Dodgers runs and cost the Yankees a 5-3 defeat.

Yogi showed no particular elation over yesterday's homer in the seventh inning off young Billy Loes, just as he displayed no particular chagrin over the "lapse" in the third game.

"Shucks," he said, "it's just the breaks of the game. It didn't bother me much when you fellows described me as the goat of the series. What for? I missed the ball, that's all. What should I have done? Commit suicide?"

"So today I hit a home run. Does that make me a hero? Heck, no! That's what I'm paid to do, ain't it? Besides, it looks like everybody is hitting home runs. There's been some great pitching but lots of homers. How many have been hit in this series? Fourteen, you say? That must be some kind of a record." (It was).

Yogi gave his reason for the record - breaking number of circuit clouds in this series.

"I've never seen so many swinging at bad pitchers," the slugging catcher explained. "Now you take this last game. There were four homers hit. (Duke) Snider hit a high fast ball out of the park for his first homer. I hit an inside pitch that they tell me Loes intended as a waste pitch. Mantle's homer came off an outside pitch. Snider's second homer was the only one hit off a good pitch."

Ben Robinson Purchases Two Automotive Firms In Wichita

Ben Robinson, who for the past 16 years has been general manager of the Bryant Motor Co. here in Sedalia, has purchased the Evans Motor Co., and the Mid-West Motor Parts Inc., of Wichita, Kan. The transaction took place recently.

Robinson acquired ownership of the two corporations from Carl Evans, who had been in the motor car business in Wichita for 50 years. Robinson will serve as president and general manager of the two corporations while Evans will continue with both as a director.

The transaction gives to Robinson the largest Dodge-Plymouth dealership in the state of Kansas. The Evans Motor Co., was founded by Evans in 1933 and had only nine employees at the time. The original agency occupied only 7,500 square feet of space. Now the two companies occupy 170,000, including 75,000 square feet of floor area.

The two companies employ 150 persons. Robinson, upon taking charge, announced that all personnel of the two corporations would be retained and he has no plans for any changes.

Syl Dennett, executive vice president of the Mid-West Motor Parts, which is the wholesale parts distributor for the Chrysler Corporation in the Wichita territory, will remain in his position.

Robinson came to Sedalia in 1936 and joined the Bryant Motor Co., owned by Frank W. Bryant, who is president and vice president of the firm with Mr. Robinson as vice president and secretary. He not only has been active in the automobile business, but also in civic affairs of Sedalia and the Fifth Street Methodist Church.

Dan Robinson, a brother of Ben, Sen. Kem Pledges To Keep Fighting Bossism In U. S.

By The Associated Press
Sen. James P. Kem pledged last night a continued fight "against bossism wherever it rears its ugly head, even if it costs me my seat in the U. S. Senate."

Kem, campaigning for re-election, told an audience at Monett that his Democratic rival for the seat, W. Stuart Symington, has "bent the knee" before "St. Louis Boss Callahan." The reference was to Sheriff Thomas Callahan.

Meanwhile in the gubernatorial race, former Gov. Phil M. Donnelly kept hammering away at what he called the negative legislative record of his Republican opponent, Rep. Howard Elliott.

Speaking at Rolla last night, the Democratic nominee declared Elliott, in a recent speech at Rolla, had promised to support the Federal Soldiers Home at St. James. But, Donnelly added, Elliott was the only representative in the Missouri Legislature who voted against a $305,000 appropriation bill for St. James.

"Here again," Donnelly said, "Elliott is trying to deceive the voters in the face of the most negative legislative record that a candidate for high office ever presented to the people of the state of Missouri."

Pettis County Farm Bureau Has 720 Memberships

The Pettis County Farm Bureau ended its 1952 fiscal year on Sept. 30 with 720 members, according to William P. McCune, chairman of the Pettis County Farm Bureau membership committee.

Chairman McCune also reports that the membership of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation is the highest in its history, with 42,794 farm families as the year ended on Sept. 30. This record membership exceeds the 1951 quota of 42,500 by 294 families. This high figure compares with 38,704 memberships last year and 104,000 for the state in 1952.

Missouri had the first state Farm Bureau in the nation. It was organized in March, 1915, at Slater, by 11 counties. There are now state organizations in 47 states and Puerto Rico, and organization work is under way now in the 48th state, Rhode Island.

The national membership is close to 1,500,000 and currently is about 130,000 farm families above what it was on this date last year. The American Farm Bureau is by far the largest farm organization in the United States.

Chairman McCune reports that others on his committee, some of Cook, Albert Runge, Charles Rowland, W. T. Summerskill, N. A. Cook, Albert Runge, Charles Romig, C. G. Schlobohm, Charles Walkup, Isaac Snow, J. C. Schroeder, W. C. Corlew, E. H. Gregory, Jerry Conaway, Calude Finley, Tom Harvey, Orin Chappell, Ernest Schlobohm, Raymond Demand and Sherman Pritchard.

Bob Thomas In Hollywood-- Sinking Titanic for Film Brings Many Historical Facts

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—They're sinking the Titanic again, this time on a movie lot, and they're having a Dickens of a time sifting the fact from fiction.

The Titanic epic will star Clifton Webb and Barbara Stanwyck and is being helmed by Charles Brackett. The stage producer, who has brought forth such films as "The Lost Weekend" and "Sunset Boulevard," said this is the most fascinating subject in his picture-making career.

"The stories we have uncovered about the sinking are fabulous," he remarked. "We have had to discard some of them because they are too fantastic for movie audiences to believe. Some are too fantastic for me to believe. That's only natural, since human testimony is inclined to be faulty in times of great stress."

The facts, as Brackett related them, are these: The Titanic was built at a cost of 7½ million. Its building was accompanied by a big publicity campaign citing it as the most modern, unsinkable ship. Newsreels still exist of the captain confidently embarking on the maiden voyage. Aboard were nine multimillionaires, several editors, a novelist, countless and President Taft's aide-de-camp.

On the night of April 14, 1912, a lookout sighted an iceberg dead ahead. The alarm was sounded and the ship was swerved to one side, missing the iceberg. Unfortunately, the ship struck a spur of under-water ice, which ripped open the bottom of the ship "like a sardine can."

The Titanic went down with 1,517 persons. When the liner Carpathia arrived on the scene, only 707 survivors could be found.

Many stories of the disaster came out of Senate hearings and newspaper accounts. Among them: That the first officer on the bridge continued the ship's speed for 10 minutes after the waters were deemed dangerous and that he shot himself after the iceberg was struck.

That one rich couple bribed crewmen to put their luggage in a lifeboat.

That a man donned a dress to gain a place on a lifeboat.

That a crewman supposed to take the water temperature was seen putting his thermometer in a water bucket before the crash.

That the captain swam to a lifeboat, deposited a child there and swam back to go down with his ship.

That Mrs. Isadore Straus declined to enter a lifeboat and leave her millionaire husband, saying, "I stayed with him a good many years; I'm not going to leave him now."

The acts of heroism outnumbered the selfish ones. Brackett observed that newspapers of the time cited the actions of the disaster victims as "one of the high marks of human behavior." As the ship was sinking, the people aboard sang "Nearer My God to Thee," and that is the current title of the picture. (The title "Titanic" is owned by another producer.)

"One good thing did come out of the sinking," Brackett added. "Investigations brought forth new and safer ship design and a stricter code of ship safety. Things that were carelessness before became crimes."

Investigators discovered the Titanic's lookout had no binoculars, there were no searchlights on the ship and the lifeboats were too few to handle the people aboard. Also, there were nearby ships which did not receive the SOS because their wireless operators were not on duty. Maritime law now prevents such occurrences.

Second Big Flight Of Thunderjets Going to Far East

HONOLULU (AP)—Seventy-five F-84G Thunderjets will leave Hickam Field Thursday on the second leg of their mass trans-Pacific flight from California to Japan.

Thirty-three of the speedy jets arrived from Travis Air Force Base, Calif., yesterday. They joined 42 which made the flight Monday.

Yesterday's group made the crossing in five hours 44 minutes, two minutes faster than Monday's time. That is an average of about 420 miles an hour for the 2,400 mile flight.

The jets were refueled over the Pacific by B-29 tankers. They were accompanied by an undisclosed number of giant B-36 bombers. Role of the B-36s was not explained. An air force spokesman would say only they "supported" the Thunderjets.

This is the second mass jet flight by U. S. Air Force planes across the Pacific. The 75 planes comprise the 27th Escort Fighter Wing of the Strategic Air Command from Bergstrom Air Force Base, Texas.

Maryln Carter Goes To K. T. Conclave

U. S. NAVAL AIR STATION, PENSACOLA, FLA. — The destroyer USS Charles S. Sperry has returned here after participating in the Knights Templar conclave in New Orleans, La.

Serving aboard her is Maryln D. Carter, ship's serviceman seaman USN, 502 West Johnson, Sedalia.

The Sperry, accompanied by the aircraft carrier USS Cabot, also stationed here, arrived in New Orleans to salute the Grand Encampment of the 355,000-member Masonic order. Some 20,000 Templars took part in the celebration.

While crew members of the Cabot formed symbolic Templar patterns on the flight deck, the city's street lamps carried the red cross and gold crown of the Knights, flanked by black and white banners. This is the third conclave to be held in New Orleans.

Steel-making involves removal of some of the carbon and other elements and the addition of correct amount of alloying substances.

Bobbie Lee Takes Part In 'Mainbrace'

Recently participating in operation Main Brace aboard the large aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt was Bobbie D. Lee, machinist's mate third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mancel T. Lee, 2247 East Broadway, Sedalia, and husband of the former Miss Rosemary Capps, route 2, Barnett.

In daily maneuvers the NATO naval forces conducted air and surface operations, fueled at sea and trained in communications designed to bridge language barriers and the differing techniques among the international forces.

Christmas Parcels to GIs Away From U.S. Should Be Mailed Soon

Christmas packages for servicemen overseas should be mailed between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15 to be sure they will reach their destination before the holiday, according to a bulletin recently issued by the Post Office Department, Washington, D. C., to Postmaster Maurice Hogan.

The packages must give way in priority to medical and military supplies, the circular states, and enough time must be permitted for any delays that may result. In addition, once the packages reach such places as Japan and Korea, they must often be delivered by train, truck, or jeep, and the use of such vehicles may again be hindered by use for priority supplies, bad weather, or impassable roads.

The report warns that parcels for Navy and Marine Corps personnel serving in the most remote areas should be mailed not later than Oct. 15.

Air mail packages should not be mailed after Nov. 25.

Parcel post packages should not exceed 100 inches in length and girth and should not weigh more than 70 pounds. Air mail packages should not measure more than 30 inches in length and girth or weigh more than two pounds.

Foodstuffs subject to spoilage and breakage should not be sent overseas, the Post Office Department warns, since military personnel are well supplied with food by the armed services.

The packages themselves should be carefully prepared for their long trips. The circular encourages the use of metal, wood, fiberboard, or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard boxes. Each box should be tied with strong cord, preferably by four separate pieces, two lengthwise and two crosswise.

The department also warned that sealing the flaps with gummed tape where they meet strengthens the box but that the use of such tape alone is not satisfactory, since the tape loosens if the boxes become wet or exposed to moist weather. The boxes should be tightly packed with cushioning material to prevent breakage.

The domestic rates of postage are applicable, and the postage must be fully prepaid.

The Post Office Department recommends that addresses be hand-printed directly on the wrappers of the boxes instead of on labels pasted on the wrappers. Since experience has shown that the labels frequently fall off when subjected to moisture.

A slip of paper with the names and addresses of the sender and the service member addressed, together with a list of the contents should be enclosed with each parcel to insure proper disposition should the package break open or the outside address be obliterated. Such inscriptions as "Merry Christmas," "Please do not open until Christmas," "Happy New Year," "With Best Wishes," and the like may be placed on the covering of the parcel in such manner as not to interfere with the address. Greeting cards may be enclosed, and books may bear simple dedicatory inscriptions.

Greeting cards to be sent separately should not be sent first-class later than Nov. 15 or sent air mail later than Dec. 1 in order to reach overseas service members before Christmas.

Christmas packages may be both insured or registered if desired.

Thermometers have registered 211 degrees Fahrenheit when placed in the sun on a glacier at an altitude of 10,850 feet.

IT'S TIME NOW TO PREPARE CHRISTMAS MAIL for overseas — The U. S. post office has just announced that the period for accepting parcel post Christmas packages for members of the armed forces abroad is Oct. 15 to Nov. 15. Air parcel post packages may be mailed up to Nov. 25. Early mailing is vital to insure delivery by Christmas. Packages for Navy and Marine Corps personnel in remote posts should be mailed not later than Oct. 15. Diagrammed above are important instructions to follow in packaging and mailing. Note especially the "length-plus-girth" limitations on size. Christmas greeting cards for overseas servicemen should be sent first-class and not later than Nov. 15. Airmail cards may be sent up to Dec. 1.

Sedalians Attend VA Hospital Fete; One Is a Patient

Seven Cooties and Ladybugs of the Sedalia VFW Post, No. 2508, from Put-N-Take Pup Tent, No. 12, and Circle No. 12 attended the dedication Sunday of the newest and most modern Veterans Administration hospital in Kansas City and another Sedalian was among the hospital's first patients.

The Sedalians who attended the dedication were: Grand Commander of the Cooties C. A. Muicahey, Royal Lady Goldbug Mrs. Clara Mulcahey, Ernest Crum, Mrs. Virginia Ricks, Mrs. Elsie Ritchey, Miss Helen Rieves and Mrs. Oma Burk and Russell Ritchey.

The Cooties and Ladybugs acted as guides for the public after the dedication ceremony.

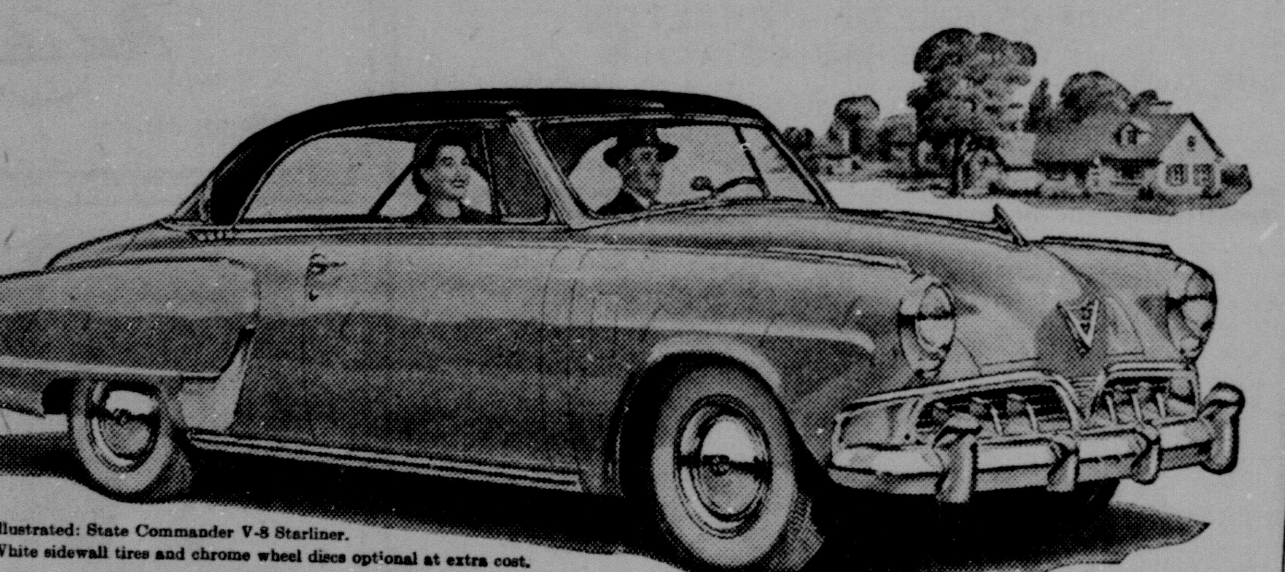

Admitted to the hospital as a patient was John Paxton, 419 Chestnut, a member of Post No. 2508.

The new 11-million dollar hospital is 11 stories tall and has a 498-bed capacity.

Nixon Charges Truman Plays Dirty Politics

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Sen. Richard M. Nixon, Republican vice presidential candidate, last night wound up a fast-moving whistle-stop tour of three New England states with a charge that President Truman is "playing cheap, dirty politics."

The one-day round trip from New York took the California senator through Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, highlighted by a precedent-making visit to solidly Democratic South Boston. In a series of speeches, Nixon continued to blast the Democratic administration, particularly the President. He told a police-estimated 3,000 Democratic South Boston. Common that Truman is engaging in a "mud-slinging, egg-throwing" campaign.

"Early this year," Nixon declared, "Mr. Truman said he didn't see why Eisenhower wanted to expose himself to the mud, rotten eggs and rotten tomatoes which were going to be thrown at him."

"It is now clear that was not a prediction—it was a threat," Nixon's reception in South Boston—never before visited by a GOP vice presidential candidate—was described as courteous. Police estimated that 3,000 listened as Nixon vigorously denounced Communism.

In Brockton, home of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, the GOP candidate told some 4,500 that "Americans like fighters in politics—but they like clean fighters like your Rocky Marciano, men that fight hard but clean."

Nixon's reception in South Boston—never before visited by a GOP vice presidential candidate—was marked by indications of what may have been dissent. The Boston Herald reported a tomato "was hurled in his general direction but it missed the target."

"On the outskirts of this crowd of more than 1,000, an indignant South Boston resident, collared a bare-headed young man in possession of a bag of tomatoes," the newspaper said.

Police estimated that 3,000 listened as Nixon vigorously denounced communism.

will again wear the red and white uniforms of the cheerleaders.

11-Year-Old Succumbs To Brain Disease
AUGUSTA, W. Va. (AP)—This little community in Eastern West Virginia today paid its last respects to Johnny Parks, plucky 11-year-old brain tumor victim who celebrated his birthday early because of approaching death. Doctors failed in three operations to arrest his condition, then said there was little chance Johnny would live until his birthday, Nov. 13. Hundreds of greeting cards and gifts were sent to the boy before he died Sunday.
